

Indoor Cat Boredom Fix — Action Checklist

PRINT THIS PAGE AND KEEP IT SOMEWHERE VISIBLE

FOOD PUZZLE IMPLEMENTATION

- ☐ Food Puzzle Implementation: Introduce a puzzle feeder such as Catit Senses 2.0 or Nina Ottosson during the first three days by placing it next to your cat's regular bowl without requiring use.
- ☐ Food Puzzle Implementation: Reduce kibble in the regular bowl to 25% of meals by week two while increasing the amount dispensed from the puzzle feeder as the primary food source.
- ☐ Food Puzzle Implementation: Upgrade to a maze feeder like Cat Amazing by week three for cats that finish puzzle feeders too quickly, which provides additional mental challenge.
- ☐ Food Puzzle Implementation: Construct a free DIY food puzzle by punching holes in a sealed cardboard egg carton or toilet paper tube filled with kibble if you have no budget for purchased toys.

VERTICAL SPACE SETUP

- ☐ Vertical Space Setup: Purchase a cat tree with a wide, stable base that will not wobble when your cat jumps on it, because cats will not use unstable furniture.
- ☐ Vertical Space Setup: Install at least one cat shelf, window perch, or cat tree at a height your cat already naturally gravitates toward to double your cat's usable territory.
- ☐ Vertical Space Setup: Position vertical resting spots near windows where your cat can watch birds and outdoor activity, which provides additional mental stimulation and reduces stress markers.
- ☐ Vertical Space Setup: If permanent shelving is not possible, use a cat tree placed in a corner as the primary vertical enrichment solution for your cat's territory.

DAILY PLAY PROTOCOL

- ☐ Daily Play Protocol: Schedule a 15-minute interactive wand toy session before your cat's evening meal every day to directly target the hunting instinct through structured play.

☐ Daily Play Protocol: Move the wand toy erratically with short dashes, sudden stops, and direction changes to mimic natural prey movement rather than fast continuous motion.

☐ Daily Play Protocol: Feed your cat immediately after the play session to reinforce the natural hunt-eat-sleep cycle that satisfies your cat's instinctive hunting sequence.

☐ Daily Play Protocol: Rotate toys weekly, rearrange furniture slightly, and introduce new textures to your cat's environment to prevent a static, boring environment from developing.
